What kind of animal can I buy?

4-H Meat Sale Market Hogs, Meat Goats, Chickens, Lambs, and Steers are young, grain fed animals bred by outstanding local beef, pork, chicken, sheep, and goat producers. The combination of grain feeding and young age for all sale animals, assures tender beef, pork, chicken, lamb, and goat.

How can I get the animal processed?

Several local slaughterhouses cooperate with the Meat Sale to provide prompt, individualized processing of purchased animals. All processing fees are at the expense of the buyer. Information concerning available slaughterhouses and their processing fees will be available online at cce.cornell.edu/chautauqua or by contacting those people listed under "For More Information" in this brochure.

How much should I pay for a 4-H animal?

Prices will vary based on competitive bidding and current market prices. However, 4-H members need a premium above market price to compensate for the individual care and management given to each animal.

I only need a quarter of beef or a side of pork, lamb, goat or just one chicken? How can I purchase an animal to fulfill my needs and also support the 4-H Livestock Program?

Meat processors can readily quarter or split sides of beef, pork, chicken, lamb, or goat. Join with a friend or business to purchase an animal to be sub-divided at processing.

How much meat will I get?

Retail yield will vary with the weight, finish, and size of the purchased animal. The quantity of specific retail cuts will vary according to your cutting instructions given to the meat processor. The figures given here should be considered as an approximate guide.
